

“If you want to know what the future is, be part of its development”

Peter Drucker

A Quaker Center on Capitol Hill

Invites you to join us for a workshop in

The Foundations of Appreciative Inquiry

Date: May 5 to 7, 2008

Time: 8:30AM-4:30PM

An Approach for Faster and Deeper Understanding and Change

A 3-day workshop for individuals, groups, and group leaders to gain a fresh perspective to an old idea.

This workshop is ideal for people in position of leadership, and for groups with projects or tasks that are calling for creative and innovative approaches.

It is an opportunity to learn how to turn dialog into action. AI is also a great resource for building bridges and developing broad community collaborations that benefit all of us.

For questions, or to register, contact
Brad Ogilvie
Phone: 202-543-5560
Fax: 202-543-3814
E-mail: Brad@WilliamPennHouse.org

Appreciative Inquiry is a strength-based approach to dialog that brings a whole new level of understanding, collaboration and action to issues we may never have thought possible.

Workshop Facilitators Marge Schiller and Joyce Lemke have worked with a variety of groups from schools to social service and advocacy groups to business leaders. Marge is the founder and President of The Positive Change Core, and Joyce is an active member. The mission of this organization is to partner with and support education and youth communities with Strength-Based whole system approaches. For three days, they will be at The William Penn House for a dynamic and life-changing workshop.

Cost: $150/person

($125/person for groups of 4 or more*)

CEU/CEC available for some professions

*groups of 4 or more from same organization/project

The William Penn House is located in the historic Capitol Hill neighborhood, convenient to DC Metro.

515 East Capitol St., SE
Washington, DC 20003

